Time to slow down

Why not enjoy the comfort of the hs.400 a little longer?

Featuring elaborately crafted upholstery and a soft extra deep seat, the hs.400 is an invitation to slow down. It is optionally available with a fixed or adjustable backrest. The backrest is comfortable to lean onto in the upright position.

In today's fast-paced world, it is important to take time to wind down. This add-on range with lounge character is the perfect choice. Special attention has been given to the development of the seat: It features a curved shape, a soft padding and is close to the floor. High-quality decorative seams and casual indentations in the seat and back add interest to the hs.400.

Superior – not only in terms of seating comfort

hs.414

A sofa becomes your new home

hs.414 is a versatile add-on range – and much more: Discover its superior features “Superior” stands for an elaborate filling made from foam sticks, beads, foams and fleeces. This ensures that the hs.414 features the first-class seating comfort offered by hülsta sofa for the first time. The new sofa “wraps around” the people sitting on it in a uniquely soft and wonderful way. Plus, the look of hs.414 matches its style: a sophisticated lounge sofa featuring upholstered units that can be combined in many ways. The decorative seam in the back cushion perfectly highlights the generosity of this extraordinary sofa range. The back cushions and the basic sofa unit are available in different coverings.

"Superior" seating comfort: The seat cushions are only attached with a zip, therefore provide a cushion-like look and can move when you sit down, giving the impression of both comfortably sinking in yet being well supported. hs.414 and hs.454 both feature seating comfort in "Superior" quality. Detailed information can be found on page 92.

hs.420

The ultimate in relaxation

Functionality can be this beautiful - and beauty can be this functional.

This sofa range brings a different level of relaxation to your home. Whether with folded down or folded up backrest, with tilted or straight side section. For a casual gathering with friends or maybe a little lunchtime nap - the hs.420 sofa range caters for every requirement in terms of functionality combined with light-heartedness. It appears to be floating on its refined wooden frame and - despite its elegance, it has a wonderfully soft and informal look.

Don't underestimate the rather intricate appearance. Even for tall people, it is very comfortable to lean onto the back cushion, if they fold it up or tilt it. We have also designed the hs.420 in such a way that it is not just comfortable for sitting, but you can also lie on it: The side sections are adjustable, ensuring a perfect rest.

On the sofa with...

the design duo Birgit Hoffmann and Christoph Kahleyss. A discussion about successful sofa design, inner quality and the necessity to remain seated.

We design comfort

"Our design approach: Furniture, that makes you happy"

They strive to achieve comfort: The design duo Hoffmann-Kahleyss designs sofas that meet the highest design requirements for hülsta sofas. We meet them – of course – on the sofa.

On average, we spend four hours a day on a sofa, where we chat, eat, sleep and dance. What kind of sofa type are you?

Kahleyss: For me, the sofa is a private space, a place to relax. This is where I read, dream, watch TV or talk to my wife – it is also the favourite spot of our dog.

Hoffmann: I almost only look at sofas from a professional point of view. Although I have a sofa, I hardly ever use it, as I tend to sit in the kitchen all the time. (she laughs)

Are your views in terms of design just as different?

Hoffmann: When it comes to work, we almost always agree. We technically speak the same language and are a fabulous team.

Kahleyss: However, we have clearly assigned tasks: Birgit is mainly responsible for the creative part, whilst I focus on the technical issues. She draws freehand and is allowed to go a bit crazy every now and then. I implement our ideas digitally and deal with their functionality and feasibility.

Sofas are not designed on the sofa: Brigitte Hoffmann and Christoph Kahleiss at work in their design office in Hamburg, St. Pauli

What does Hoffmann-Kahleiss stand for?

Kahleiss: We are committed to innovation. We do not want to re-use something existing, but are always searching for something new. It can be a small detail, such as an unusual seam or a rounded shape. Those are the features that make our furniture special.

What are your special ideas for hülsta sofa?

Hoffmann: We have been working for hülsta sofa for two years and are proud that we were involved in building the brand. Our design approach: Sofas that make you happy. The furniture from the hülsta sofa range is contemporary yet long-lasting. Another important subject is functionality. It is nice to be able to tilt the back cushion, if you want a comfortable lunchtime nap - after all, sofas are not just for sitting.

How can I recognise good quality in upholstered furniture?

Kahleiss: Inner values matter. The quality of a sofa depends upon the quality inside of the unit. In theory, you can take a block of foam and cover it with fabric: The first optical impact is identical to a quality sofa – however this does not last. A hülsta sofa consists of a wooden frame, belts, three layers of foam and lots of expertise.

Hoffmann: You can feel it straight away! Good quality requires work, you could also say: Our work means comfort.

A sofa is an investment and must be carefully considered. How do I find the right type for me?

Hoffmann: It is no use browsing through a catalogue and just going by the look. Sitting down is the art of buying a sofa. You must properly try it, feel it and listen to yourself: What do I need and does the sofa also fit into my home? Often people are disappointed because a huge unit suddenly does not fit into their room – we recommend cutting out the size and shape in paper and put it on the floor, which will give a realistic impression of what it would look like in your home.

Kahleiss: If you are undecided regarding trendy colours go for neutral shades such as beige, grey or brown instead. Depending upon personal taste, you can add accents with colourful cushions thus completely changing the look.

What are currently the most important sofa trends?

Hoffmann: Super soft upholstery! When it comes to sofas, we are certainly not heading towards hard times...

The wave of an elegant lady

One of the hs.430 options are the adjustable side sections. They have the same effect as arms, with which the elegant sofa range waves at its onlookers.

Refer back to pages 38/39 and then back again to this page: If you do this quickly, you notice the different positions of the adjustable side sections and you do not even need the stylish sofa in front of you. Once you actually see the sofa, you will also admire the slim pointed cushions and the elegant indentations on the armrests. Back cushions with integrated bolster are optionally available. The high back of the long chair can be tilted backwards like the side sections. Matching armchairs and stools are available to create a decorative seating group.

Architecture made for sitting hs.432 is the sofa range that forces you to chill.

It is not made for stiffly sitting up straight, but for extremely comfortable lounging. The distinctive size, the balanced proportions with a low backrest – everything is made to perfectly fit down to the very last detail.

The hs.432 has a generous size: In line with the current trend, there is an emphasis on horizontal lines, the sofa architecture basically imitates the look of a spacious bungalow. However, the hs.432 manages to incorporate this special look into any room, even in an apartment on the fifth floor. The craftsmanship is of course of the highest quality.

hs.440

Exquisite, elegant entry-model single sofa

The hs.440 re-introduces the single sofa into the living worlds and proves that one sofa can match many different styles.

We honestly did not intend to mainly describe the new hs.440 with words that start with an "e". It is just perfectly described and easy to remember as an exquisite and elegant entry-model single sofa. It is also noteworthy that the hs.440 can be integrated with many different styles: from Vintage to Long Island to minimalist or eccentric. All leg and cover versions of the hülsta sofa collections are possible. Its comfort is also adaptable: The seat depth can be varied with loose back cushions.

Total freedom of choice, limited to good style

The more possibilities we offer you, the more individual your taste can be.

This works best with so-called system furniture such as the hs.450 range. There are two seating comfort versions, three seat depths, two seat heights, eight different armrests and ten different leg versions. The hs.450 range allows everyone to realise their individual seating and design ideas.

So far so good - or could it be even better? Of course, because the pampering range even offers leg supports and headrests, which can extend the hs.450 if required. Perfect for moments when you need extra support.

Working in the leather cutting department requires physical strength. Here is Slobodan Sebalj at work.

The fine arts from Nagold

A hülsta sofa has come a long way before it arrives at the final quality control. Shown here is the quality check of the hs.450.

The hülsta sofas workshop is a state-of-the-art implementation of classic fine arts: You will see performing arts in the cutting department, visual arts in the frame construction as well as applied arts in the sewing and upholstery sections. If you are a discerning customer, simply join us for a tour of the respective tasks.

Could there be a small stain or a scar that is too big on the leather? Jochen Keppler from quality control looks for faults and inconsistencies.

The dance of the cutters

We will spend a whole day in Swabia, in Mötzingen near Nagold to be precise, where the hülsta sofa range is manufactured. Our first stop is the cutting department. or maybe we should call it the performing arts – dance in this case, as the way the ladies move is reminiscent of ballet: artistic movement with deliberate shifting of the weight, a turn to the right, a glance across the elbow, a few dancing steps to the left, a shift of the weight again, then a cross of the arms with the fingers expressively spread apart...

They move in formation or individually. Every now and then a Pas de Deux, then another solo. In addition to their craftsmanship, the staff have of course also high-tech support: Orders of the same product group are digitally assigned for cutting. CAD systems identify any deficiencies before cutting. Using a beamer, the skin outline is projected onto the pattern and the ideal cut is precisely made. Automatic cutting machines ensure an accurate cut of the individual sections. The equipment ensures that the precious raw material is used as economically as possible. Economists class leather as a sustainable raw material. However, in Nagold, the staff understand that the material comes from live animals and as they appreciate its origin, they turn the leather into pieces of art.

The choreographic director of the production

It is not sufficient to have talented artists. They also must be assessed correctly and used accordingly. This also applies to the selection of leathers and fabrics. Andreas Frey calls the warehouse in Nagold a true treasure trove. He manages the production and – to stick to the artistic metaphors – also the choreography. His store includes countless skins and fabrics to ensure that the delivery time remains relatively short at approximately six weeks. The sheer quantity generally defines the huge total value; however, modern technology manages to determine the exact quantity and even quality. Especially in the leather section, all skins are individually registered. Scanners identify the skin outline. People complement the equipment by manually marking certain leather features. Above all floats the “Blue Angel“, the environmental sign, which is awarded to and certifies hülsta sofa leather. In order to ensure that the environmental aspects as well as the social requirements continue to be respected, hülsta sofa regularly visits its tanneries in Germany, Italy Brazil and Argentina. As the choreographic director, Mr Frey keeps a watchful eye on making sure that everything remains clear. This of course also applies to the fabrics section. hülsta sofa always scrutinizes the goods from its Italian and German suppliers, which are rich in tradition.

Visual arts: the frame production

Architecture and carpentry are part of the visual arts and are matched at hülsta sofa in the frame production. As you would expect when building a high-quality house, we focus on manufacturing the necessary parts ourselves. After all, the frames and upholstery substructures play a major part in the comfort of the sofa: hülsta sofa manufactures and installs the frameworks near Freudenstadt – i.e. they are “Made in Germany“. The experts here talk about a “framework“, not just a simple “frame“. This is probably due to the fact that the industry is focused on “working“.

“Hand-crafted means, that a product might have minimal deviations.”

Stephanie Widmayer, sewing department

Almost like a sewing studio of an international fashion designer: The hülsta seamstresses demonstrate their finesse.

You can only dream about skin like this: The top layer shows genuine natural features such as decorative graining and fine pores. Every now and then there is a tiny scar that might have come from an insect bite. No skin crease, which generally occurs in the neck area. A subtle bronze shade that does not require an artificial colour application. All in all a robust and rustic image... We are talking about Slobodan Sebalj, one of 180 staff in the development and upholstery production of hülsta sofa. It is obvious at every hülsta sofa retailer and in countless German living rooms that he and his colleagues are master craftsmen. However, you will only know that they are that good-looking, if you visit the hülsta sofa workshop

"We are not off-the-peg upholsterers. We rely on our expertise and our experience." Thomas Hehr and Perry Jung, upholsterers

Fabric or leather?
Depending upon

are glued or stapled.
Corners are individually crafted.

It also alludes to "manual work" and craftsmanship, even though it is nowadays appropriately complemented by technical and electronic equipment. hülsta sofa manufacturers each framework to order, then takes it to the upholstery workshop in Nagold.

Arts and crafts for women: the sewing room

It is a bit of a mystery: In the sewing room, there are only women and in the upholstery workshop, there are only men. Nobody really knows why there is such a clear division between men and women. It could be due to favourite habits and positive experiences. Continuity is certainly a distinctive feature of the hülsta sofa staff: Some stay with the company from apprenticeship to retirement. The expression "belonging to a company" is not just an empty phrase' as the staff literally "feel part" of the company. In the sewing room, there are traditionally women, who are the experts. Each stitch is important, as the faultless craftsmanship of the seamstresses gives the hülsta sofas the highest quality. First of all, the padding is sewn to ensure that the sofa will later be ultra-comfortable. The final cover is made using the so-called "assembly seam". hülsta sofa supports both the professional and the social qualifications of its staff, which is ideal for teamwork. Everyone pulls together, following the same lines. After all, the team spirit goes hand in hand with a strong identification - with the company, the materials and the product.

Arts and crafts for men: the upholstery workshop

As already mentioned, only men work in the upholstery workshop. This is where everything comes together: Frames, foams and covers all arrive at the same time and are precisely assembled. Sticking to the metaphors of the fine arts, we assign upholstering to handicrafts, i.e. the applied arts. There is indeed a need for skilled hülsta sofa is looking forward to welcoming back one of its sofas.

craftsmanship, diligence and knowledge of the materials. To start with, the foams are glued to the wooden framework. A process, which - thanks to modern manufacturing cabins with extraction systems - is completely harmless to health and the environment. Afterwards, the cushions are covered, then the large covers are fitted. It is a challenge to correctly assess the features of the respective cover materials. Leather or fabric? Soft or firm? Plain or patterned? Each cover has its own characteristics and requires experience and clear visual judgement.

Work completed?

In the end, each hülsta sofa must pass a strict test. Under ideal lighting conditions, the configuration and the appearance are scrutinized: What is the overall impression? Are details such as legs, seams, leather features, height and seat depth all correct? If there are minimal deviations from absolute perfection, then this indicates that the units are handmade. This quality craftsmanship leads to the hülsta sofa staff loving their job - and hülsta sofa customers loving their sofas.

Seating comfort

In the Superior class.

Discover a completely new seating experience with the hs.414 and hs.454 .

Frequent flyers are often rewarded with a lot more comfort – so what about frequent ‘sitters’? Or even short ‘sitters’ who would also want a five-star seating experience? hülsta sofa now offers a quality bonus for everyone who prefers special comfort, irrespective of how long or how often you want to sit really comfortably. The new hs.414 and hs.454 ranges feature the “Superior” seating comfort. A quality class that we offer for the first time with hülsta sofa. Sofas that - whilst they do not fly - certainly send you on wonderful journeys.

How do you achieve the Superior class for seating comfort? In order to answer this question, we would have to go into detail regarding foam sticks, layered structures and foam sheets. However, we are pretty sure that you would rather have a practical experience, i.e. by just sitting down.

Both ranges feature sofas with loose cushions that are fixed with zips. The fact that the cushions move when sitting down is a nice side effect, providing the strikingly casual look of the hs.414 and hs.454.

Fabric or leather? Subtle or distinctive?

We do not know if you are among those who find it easy to take decisions – but we hope so. After all, you not only need to select the sofa range and size configuration, but also its covering - and we have a choice of 160 leathers and fabrics. Fabrics are available in ten different qualities featuring a fine, coarse or distinctive texture. Leathers can be chosen in five different qualities with a smooth, medium or distinct texture. Take your time for the selection, as your hülsta sofa will be with you for many years to come.

Beautiful or durable? Or maybe both?

When it comes to red wine and other attacks, leather is generally seen as more durable compared to fabric. However, it is not quite that simple. There are of course very durable leathers such as pigmented and embossed leathers, but there are also more delicate leathers, such as fine Aniline leathers. Then again, there are fabrics that are unusually durable and easy-to-care for: the fabric collections Diane 1 and 2 in Q2 quality.

Revel in colour worlds

Adaptation talents und eye-catchers.

You will certainly find your favourite among fabrics in 75 colours and leathers in 50 colours. The only question is how to select. Should the cover be a striking eye-catcher? This could work well for a single sofa, which could be covered in a bold colour shade. Or should it be a subtle colour that will still be a classic in years to come? We would rather recommend this for a large sofa combination. To keep things interesting, this can be redecorated with colourful cushions at any time.

Opposites attract. You only need to know which ones.

In order to make your decision easier, we have developed a practical system: This allows you to recognise which colour worlds work well with one another. This will help, if you want to combine a leather armchair with a fabric sofa, for instance. Even more so, if you want to benefit from the special combination option for the hs.414 or hs.440: With these ranges, it is possible to have a different material on the basic sofa to the back cushion. You might sit on leather and lean onto fabric - or vice versa.

Balanced colour combinations - made easy.

The leather and fabric coverings are classed in overall fabric schemes. The corresponding last two digits of the covers show that they are part of a particular colour world, making it easy to identify matching covers.
